

HERE'S A SECRET

The secret of why this store was able through the two years of rapidly advancing prices to maintain quality without advancing price.

This is a strictly cash store—

Cash buying and cash selling

We save in buying for cash an average of 6c on every dollar of purchase.

We save in selling the 10c on every dollar all credit stores lose by bad debts

In other words, had we been a credit store every dollar's worth of merchandise would have cost us 18c extra, which our trade would have had to stand.

This store is so well known as a STRICTLY CASH STORE that it is hardly necessary to speak of it at all, but the advantages to you in this time of advancing is so apparent to us we cannot help but speak of it. We have no favorites—all are treated exactly alike.

The credit of founding this CASH BUSINESS belongs to the good old clothier, Charlie Cole, who did business with you from 1871 up to the time of his death, 1905, and we, following in his footsteps, have kept in effect those staunch business principles that make and keep customers.

DIES AT AGE OF 105

Boston Man Continued Active in Business After 104th Birthday.

Boston, July 12.—Thomas Upham, an old-time Boston business man, who is dead at Phillips beach on the North shore, would have reached the age of 105 years next month. He was born in August 1811.

Mr. Upham undoubtedly was Boston's oldest active business man, as since his 104th birthday anniversary
he had continued to attend to various affairs of business and he was a familiar figure in and around banks and business offices, always accompanied by his wife. Except that his hearing had become much impaired, Mr. Upham was as alert and active as if he were a man many years younger than his actual advanced age.

He Works.

"He never works, does he?"
"Oh, yes; he works any one he can for anything he can."
